

ABSTRACT

In one embodiment, a system and a method for signaling write status pertain to detecting transfer of data to an external storage device plugged into an input/output port associated with a computer, and activating a write-in-progress indicator that 5 signals that writing has not been completed by the external storage device.